Job detail

When I was a sales representative for both Ford and Toyota, it was my job to be educated on the cars and products that the companies offer. It was also expected of me to keep in touch with the clients that had ordered vehicles from me. This was a crucial part of the Job because orders can take up to 6 to 18 months. The highest I had to manage at a time was 42 orders. Since the products we sold were expensive it was my job to sell products to service the customers' new assets, so being able to clearly connect the client to the service was vital.
